

Located in the heart of Portland, Oregon, Portland DBT Institute (PDBTI) is a vibrant clinic community providing comprehensive DBT clinical services, as well as training, supervision, and consultation throughout the United States. Directed by Linda Dimeff, PhD, PDBTI is the oldest and among the largest freestanding outpatient DBT clinics in the world, serving close to one thousand clients per year. PDBTI is a founding member of the DBT Practice Clinics Consortium.

PDBTI provides a full array of DBT and CBT services for adults, young adults, and teens. Programs include: DBT for Eating Disorders, DBT Medication Management, DBT for Substance Abusers, DBT for Adolescents, and DBT/Prolonged Exposure (PE) services for Stage 1 patients with PTSD and BPD, as well as other trauma recovery services. PDBTI also offers other services designed to support DBT (e.g., Family & Friends Orientation Workshop, DBT-influenced Couples and Family Therapy). PDBTI is a state-licensed clinic and complies with all state requirements related to quality assurance and consumer protection. For more information about our clinical and training programs, please visit: pdbti.org.

We are actively recruiting psychologist residents to join our team in fall, 2017. This position will automatically transfer to a full-time, clinical staff position upon completion of the year-long residency program and after obtaining licensure in Oregon State. Licensed psychologists with advanced training in DBT will provide supervision to post-doctoral fellows. To ensure rich clinical experience, post-doctoral fellows will be assigned patients across clinic programs and with a range of severe and complex behavioral problems. Post-doctoral fellows also participate in a range of training opportunities provided by PDBTI and other DBT and CBT experts.

This is a full time, four-days per week clinical position with medical/dental and retirement benefits. Compensation is based on a split-fee for billed services model. The average annual wages earned by post-doctoral fellows in the initial year ranges from $50K to $55K.

Application materials include:

1. Cover letter outlining DBT training and clinical experience, career interests, and goals for the next three years.
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Two letters of recommendation
4. A clinical work sample, such as an assessment report, DBT case formulation, publication, etc.
5. Undergraduate and graduate school transcripts (unofficial transcripts are acceptable).

Materials can be submitted via email to Dr. Andrew White (awhite@pdbti.org) or faxed to Dr. White at: 503-231-8153. We host a two day in-person interview February 6th and 7th for prospective applicants. Questions about the residency may be submitted to PDBTI Administrative Assistant, Angeline Fugere (afugere@pdbti.org). The deadline for application is December 15th, 2015.
